

Former Ike Turner saxman Mekiel Reuben drops new CD: Cookin in East LA

Written by

Los Angeles, CA (BlackNews.com) - Mekiel Reuben former saxman with legendary R&B icon Ike Turner debuts his 5th solo CD Cookin In East L A, and is available worldwide at Amazon.com and CDbaby.com. Mekiel has turned up the heat with his much anticipated return by doing a silky smooth arrangement of the "Kool and The Gang" mega hit "Too Hot", which is already stirring up much attention at the most popular social networking sites. The new single debuted Aug 1, 2009 on the world's most listened to smooth jazz station, SmoothJazz.com, and other Internet and terrestrial stations. Mek, as he is affectionately referred to by his close friends, and whose style has been compared to Grover Washington Jr., has also included other favorites such as Chaka Khan's "Aint Nobody", and the Patti Austin and James Ingram super hit "Baby Come To Me". It just gets better from there as this dynamic body of work also includes original compositions like the title track "Cookin in East LA", a Latin Jazz flavored song that will definitely have you swaying to the rhythm of the beat.

Mekmuse Records as part of the launch promotion of the new CD, is giving away a limited amount of a special disc that includes the new single and other tracks from the CD. This musical project is hot and you don't want to miss the opportunity to get one of these special edition discs for free. To see how you can be one of the fortunate individual to get this disc, you can write to mekmuse@yahoo.com for more information. To hear samples of the new music and to become one of Mek's friends visit www.myspace.com/mekielmusic