Join our team. We are looking for creative, passionate writers and photographers who are interested in covering the local –and national—arts community. We want talented individuals who have a pulse on all things hip, who can ingeniously introduce our readers to the latest trends and who have the flexibility to cover events throughout the city. This is a perfect opportunity for writers and photographers who are interested in building their portfolios and getting more experience. Interested parties should send two writing samples with a cover letter and resume to batalara@insightnews.com. No phone calls, please.
